Bubble gum can sometimes help relieve the tension of a play-off game as Haliburton player Marla MacNaull demonstrated Monday evening at the Minden ball diamond. Despite the gum, the visitors lost 8 - 2 to even the best of five final series at one game apiece. For a complete report of the game, see page 9.

"It has been a good year" Minden merchants pleased

A number of Minden area merchants expressed surprise at a report carried in the Haliburton paper of last week with regard to the level of business in this community this past season. According to many of the business people in Minden, this past summer was the best they had experienced.

Ken Fielding of Dixie Lee Chicken noted that sales at his franchised fast food outlet on Highway 35 had far outstripped last year. "We're well ahead of last year's business," Fielding commented, "even taking inflation into account."

That situation seemed to be echoed by a number of merchants who recorded their "best summer ever." Dave Willis, proprietor of the Rockcliffe Hotel, was one of those. He commented that the only problem he experienced at his establishment was locating space to accommodate the patrons who stood in line outside to get into the establishment.

Eileen Shapiera of the Minden Country Mall questioned the validity of the comment that "Minden has done no more than hold its own," in reference to local business trends. She said it has been the busiest summer yet for the stores in the mall and that she has even been drawing new customers from Haliburton Village, Lindsay and even Peterborough. "We've had an excellent summer," she stated, "we're well ahead of last year."

Most of the merchants contacted in an informal survey admitted that the Sky Slider ride in Haliburton Village added to the traffic in that community. However, it appears that it has also resulted in an increase in traffic in Minden as well. Certainly on the whole, it appears despite economic conditions that are less than favourable, the business community in Minden is continuing to prosper.

Stu Brandon of Northland Sales suggested that the change in the nation's economy has made consumers more careful. "I think they're being more careful in what they spend their money on. They're being more choosy, I know I am."

Brandon said that the economic conditions have also had an impact on how merchants operate their business. "People are managing their businesses more carefully," he stated. "They're watching their inventories more carefully."

He said that sales at the store operated by his father and himself, were up during the summer compared with last year. "Sales were not quite what we expected they might be, but we are not upset or disappointed with the summer trade."

Sawmill accident takes life

A tragic industrial accident Friday morning has taken the life of a 31 year old Donald man.

Donald Ross Shaw was one of a number of employees who was attempting to remove a stuck log at the Pelaw Logging Limited sawmill in Haliburton. The log was apparently being fed into the saw when it became stuck. The men were attempting to free the log when the machinery lurched into gear and Shaw was thrown into the spinning saw blade. The man was killed instantly.

Dr. Blair Pierce was the coroner.

Police was carried out by Constable Bill Clendenning and Corporal D'arcy Stevens.

The matter is also being investigated by the Ontario Ministry of Labour, which is responsible for industrial safety in the province.

Shaw, who was buried on Monday, is survived by his wife and three children.

Noise trial delayed again

The hearing into the charge against the Rockcliffe Hotel for allowing excessive noise to emanate from the premises has been postponed once again. Appearing before Judge Inrig Tuesday morning, counsellor for the municipality Fraser Rogers, asked for the postponement. He said two important witnesses for the municipality were not available to appear. The judge agreed to set December 1 as a trial date.

The township laid the excessive noise charge against the hotel over two years ago. In the intervening time the charge has been withdrawn and relaid and the case has been delayed on a number of procedural matters.

According to Rogers, this is the first time the trial has been postponed at the municipality's request.

Rogers told the court that earlier this summer, when a trial date was being set, a number of dates during the summer months had been considered. He said he had cleared these dates with the municipality's witnesses, but when it came time to set the date, lawyer for the hotel, Ted Gardiner, requested that a date following the busy summer season be selected. Rogers said the September 1 date had not been cleared with his witnesses.

Rogers said he advised Gardiner of the situation in late July and the two agreed to the December hearing.

Judge Inrig suggested that two days be set aside for the hearing just in case the amount of evidence should require the hearing to run into a second day.

Dave Willis, owner of the hotel, appeared at the Tuesday hearing and said he agreed to the extension to December 1.

Reeves like 2 year term

Feelings among a number of the Haliburton County Reeves appear disapproving of a proposal put forward by the provincial government to extend the term for municipal politicians from two years to three.

The suggestion was made last week by municipal affairs minister Claude Bennett. He said the province is considering the proposal because of what he termed the growing complexities of operating a municipality.

County warden and Dysart et al reeve, Murray Fearrey, says he could see no reason for the change, that it simply "isn't necessary."

Asked whether or not a three year term would encourage councils to initiate more long term projects for their areas, Fearrey pointed out that most of the work councils do is centred around the budget which is a yearly package and there would be little need of a longer term in that case.

He also says he hasn't had any experience in any long term projects in the County.

He also said he feels the two year term is "a good opportunity to assess the

Picnic to mark Terry Fox Day

Plans are underway for a community picnic in Minden to mark Terry Fox Day in Canada, September 13.

The day is being organized by Reverend George Elliott. He pointed out that many communities in Canada will be holding some sort of activity in memory of the valiant runner who attempted to run across this country while raising money for cancer research.

Elliott said this week that plans for a corn roast with hot dogs and refreshments have started to gell. The picnic will be held at the fair grounds.

He noted that in many centres memorial runs of short distance will be held to mark the day. The organizer did not rule out that possibility in conjunction with the picnic, but suggested he would need additional help if that portion of the program was to be included.

Elliott said the picnic would give individuals an opportunity to get together in a community effort, to remember Terry Fox and demonstrate community spirit. "The picnic need not be a fund raising event," he said. "We will have to charge a small amount to cover the costs and any monies left over can be donated to the cancer society."

Exact details of the event, which has been tentatively scheduled for 5 p.m. on September 13, have yet to be worked out. Finals plans will be announced in next week's edition of The Times.

In the meantime, anyone interested helping to organize the event are asked to get in touch with George Elliott at 286-1817.

These children proved that reading can be fun as well as rewarding. The youngsters participated in a summer program called "Rolling Readers" which ran from July 13 to August 25 at the Minden Library. The aim of the program is to keep up the children's reading skills during the summer. The program was started in Kingston several years ago and has become popular in other areas. Participants receive decals and certificates with red and yellow seals after a certain number of books have been read. Taking part in this summer's program were Michael Klochkoff, Josie Klochkoff, Cindy Roodenburg, Laurie Smith, Damon Smith, Greg Watson, John Ballantyne and Keri Durant. Pictured with the children are the organizers of the Minden program, Bev Woods, Jeanne Sears and Pearl Durant.

DINING OUT in the HIGHLANDS

The Setting

It's a little out of the way, but then most interesting places are.

Gelert Gardens, located in the tiny hamlet whose name it carries, is a cosy little restaurant on Highway 519. What the restaurant lacks in size is more than made up in the cheerful atmosphere and friendly welcome from the Jennings.

The restaurant features traditional Canadian style food and is a favourite spot for a quick lunch in the country. However, they also specialize in Chinese cuisine.

To get to Gelert Gardens from Minden, take the South Lake Road to Highway 519, then south two miles. From Haliburton follow Highway 519 south to Gelert.

people who are put in office." Anson, Hindon and Minden reeve, Lloyd Walker says "there are two sides to the coin" in the matter.

He said if a council is elected that is working together for the good of the area, the three year term would work but if a weaker council is elected, it is there for three years.

"It's a difficult decision to make," says Walker.

However, Cardiff reeve, Malcolm McGillivray said that a two year term is restricting to a council and the longer term may provide more flexibility.

He said a three year term would cut election costs and he added he thinks the provincial government was in favour of the extension.

"It's a two-way street," said McGillivray. He agrees with Walker that a council must have reliable people for the three year term to succeed.

Lutterworth reeve, Ron Gambell takes a different approach when he says it's up to the voters to elect a satisfactory council.

"If people get interested and come out to council meetings, vote and put good people in, then I'm in favour of the three year term," Gambell says.

He echoes the sentiments of Walker and McGillivray by summing up, "I wouldn't want to sit on a bad council for three years."

Stanhope reeve Jim Harrison said there was little need for a three year term. He said there were potential savings to the taxpayers in only having to hold elections every three years but pointed out that a two year term, helps to keep the elected officials "on their toes."

Harrison admitted that things have changed since he first assumed office in Stanhope 14 years ago. "Things are getting more complicated," he commented, "but if an individual is interested in doing a good job, then he should be willing to spend the time when he is first elected to learn the ropes."

The Stanhope reeve noted that if a politician is doing a good job during his two year term, the voters will recognise that effort and return him to office.

Light standard costs explode

When Anson, Hindon and Minden council approved the purchase of five streetlights for Minden several weeks ago the cost was estimated at $2300, now it has zoomed to close to $10,000.

Deputy-reeve Doug Pritchard said he received word in writing from Ontario Hydro stating the price increase.

The sodium lights council agreed to buy will now cost approximately $2000 each which includes the installation.

Reeve Lloyd Walker was upset over the higher price saying, "We should question the difference."

Pritchard said there had been a verbal agreement at first but when the figures were written down the difference was substantial.

Walker asked Pritchard to contact Hydro to get a report on the breakdown of the cost of the lights, attachment arms and installation.

Council said it would discuss the possibility of installing more lights in Carnarvon at its next meeting.

Too long to wait

We have made the point in the past when the idea was first suggested last year sometime, three years is simply too long for municipal politicians to hold office.

It would appear that most of the municipal politicians in this area share this belief.

The province, in floating the trial balloon, has suggested that municipal matters are becoming too complicated and that our local elected representatives need more time to get the hang of the job. That may indeed be the case in larger centres, but it certainly isn't the situation here.

We admit, of course, that running a municipality is a complicated affair that requires a certain degree of expertise and acumen. But, that is why the members of council have the support and knowledge of the permanent staff. These people offer a continuity that should ensure no council acts in a rash manner out of sheer ignorance of what is practical.

Also, we feel council members should be eager enough to learn the ropes as quickly as possible. Being on council means more than attending meetings. Any individual who is keen enough to stand for office for the first time, should realize that the first six months must be an intensive learning experience if he or she is to make a worthwhile contribution to the municipality.

Finally, the three year term places further distance between the elected officials and those they represent. It makes the clearing of "deadwood" councillors more difficult and lengthens the time a "no action" council can occupy their positions of power causing a year's more problems than necessary.

In spite of the apparent lack of interest of ratepayers in municipal elections, the two year term is needed to allow voters to express their satisfaction or displeasure.

Three years is just too long to wait.

We all win

There are two approaches to industrial development in the county. One is to attract outside interests to establish a new factory here. That is usually a long and tedious task that has proven of little success in the past.

The other method is to encourage local entrepreneurs to expand and invest in this area. This is by far the simplest route to follow for there is little need to convince someone who is already here that this is the best place to live. They're already here. They know the problems and advantages of the area, have a knowledge of the workforce and can gear their growth to the return received.

One such industry which appears on the verge of a major expansion is that proposed by Len and Rodger Creelman. Their idea, as reported on page 5 of today's newspaper, has already attracted the approval of federal authorities. With the successful testing of their prototype later this year, there could very well be a new industry for the county.

We wish them well in their efforts. The entire county will profit by their success.

We wonder, how many other ideas are out there waiting to prosper and grow.

A committee made up of school trustees, parents and Ministry of Education officials, appointed to examine the role of school trustees, has recommended that trustees be allowed to set their own remuneration. The recommendation is contained in the committee's report which was released last week as a discussion paper by Education Minister Dr. Bette Stephenson.

A school trustee's maximum remuneration is now set by legislation and ranges from $100 a month to $600 a month depending upon the number of pupils within the board's jurisdiction.

The committee recommends a base amount of $400 a month with each board being free to establish additional amounts. The $400 minimum would be paid through a combination of provincial grant and local taxes as at present with any remuneration in excess of the minimum to be determined by each board and paid entirely from local taxes.

The 12-member committee, which was formed in February of this year, was composed of members of trustee associations and the Ontario School Trustees' Council, parent groups and Ministry officials.

The review was one which the Ministry's long-range planning document, "Issues and Directions", released in June 1980, said would be done. In addition to trustee remuneration, the report deals with qualifications of trustee candidates, the function of the trustee, and parental involvement in school governance matters.

The committee supported existing legislation which prohibits a school board employee from running for trustee of the board by which he/she is employed.

The committee concluded that a school board employee should continue to be allowed to run for a board other than that by which he/she is employed but only if such an employee obtains a leave-of-absence without pay to run and remains on leave-of-absence while a trustee.

As the legislation stands now a school board employee may continue employment with a school board while sitting as a trustee on another board.

The committee reiterated that a system of school boards, directly elected locally and distinct from other locally-elected bodies is important to retain and it is not practical to merge or combine school boards with other elected municipal bodies.

The committee members stated that parental involvement in the schools is very important but that they felt a legislated requirement to have parent committees for schools would be counter-productive.

Dr. Stephenson said the report and a response form have been sent to school trustees, home and school representatives and most educational organizations across the province. Dr. Stephenson said the Ministry has asked for reaction by October 15.

Individuals may obtain copies through the Ontario Government Bookstore.

(Report prepared by Ontario Ministry of Education).

Disastrous economic policies

- by Bill Scott, M.P. -

Prime Minister Trudeau is coming under increasing pressure from Liberal Members of Parliament to do something about the economic crisis in Canada.

It is the first time in recent memory that members of the governing party in Parliament have publicly criticized their party's policies, and have openly demanded action to relieve the heavy economic burden being imposed on Canadians.

Liberal members admit that they are being subjected to an angry barrage of criticism from voters in their ridings, and some Members say that if an election were called tomorrow, it would be likely a repeat of 1979 when Joe Clark formed the government.

In addition to double-digit inflation, and interest rates in excess of 20 per cent, most Canadians blame the government for allowing the Canadian Union of Postal Workers to stage a 45-day strike, putting further pressure on the economy and ruining thousands of small businesses.

It is obvious to most people by now that the government's policy of allowing interest rates to soar has not curbed inflation, as they said it would, but the federal finance minister has said that he will not back down from his stand on high interest rates.

Last Thursday (August 27) the Bank of Canada raised its interest rate again, to an all-time high of 21.07 per cent. This increase followed one of the worst weeks ever experienced by the Toronto Stock Market, when more than $10 billion was wiped off the stated values of companies listed on the exchange.

Stock market analysts say that people are selling stocks and investing in high-interest-bearing bank notes, and that this practice is stifling growth of our manufacturing industries at a time when they should be expanding and creating new jobs.

While the high interest rates are pleasing to investors, they are putting housing further than ever out of reach of the average Canadian. Many people who are forced to renew mortgages at this time are faced with monthly payments more than double what they are presently paying.

There are fewer business start-ups, and more business failures this year than at any time in our history. This is due to the fact that no one can afford to borrow at today's interest rates, either to start up a business or to maintain adequate inventories.

Public outcry has prompted the Liberal government to call a national caucus for September 15 to discuss the economy. It can only be hoped that sanity will prevail, and finance minister MacEachen will be forced to retreat from his disastrous economic and fiscal policies.

by Ron Reid of the Federation of Ontario Naturalists

On a rainy weekend canoe trip recently, my search for dry firewood yielded a special treat. As soon as my saw touched an ancient dry stub, out from the top scurried a soft grey squirrel. Even though I had never seen one before, the flattened body, loose-fitting skin, and large rounded eyes of the attractive little rodent gave away its identity immediately - a northern flying squirrel.

Flying squirrels don't really fly but their ability to glide can carry them air-borne for 50 yards or more. To launch, the squirrel hunches itself up against a trunk or branch, and then springs outwards. With its legs spread to form a parachute from the folds of loose skin, a flying squirrel can dodge through the branches simply by manoeuvring its legs and flattened tail.

Northern flying squirrels are found in forests across Ontario, and are probably just as common as its colourful relative the red squirrel. Even though flying squirrels are active year round, they are seldom seen. The bulging eyes, which remind me for all the world of seal pups, are for nocturnal vision, since the flying squirrel restricts his activities to the nighttime hours. Its diet of nuts, berries, and fruit is supplemented by the occasional insect or bird's egg, and it may even scavenge an animal carcass if this meat is handy.

Red squirrels are noisy and competitive, leading a solitary existence, but flying squirrels seem to like company. Our nest eventually yielded four curious squirrels, but as many as nine adults have been found in a single winter den. Abandoned woodpecker holes are especially attractive homesites, but summer nests constructed of shredded bark and moss, are also common.

The world of the flying squirrel, like that of the skunk, the raccoon, and the forest horned owl, is the world of darkness. If you catch a glimpse of these furry gliders snatching June beetles from your porch light or thumping softly on your roof, count yourself lucky to have seen one of Canada's least-known mammals.

Seawind project gets major boost

Spirits were soaring this past week at the Rodlen Aircraft workshop in Haliburton.

The reason for the jubilation was the announcement on Wednesday that the federal government would provide 75% of the funding for the development of the third Seawind prototype aircraft.

President of Seawing International, Len Creelman of Haliburton, and his brother Rodger, were delighted with the news. "The announcement means much more than the money which the government is making available to us," Len commented. "In order to get this grant we had to submit numerous reports and documents on our proposal."

The brothers are creating an airplane in kit form, which they hope to market to individuals interested in building their own aircraft. More on that later.

"The approval for the grant is a great boost to our efforts," Len said. "It means someone in Ottawa has studied the feasibility of our design and accepted it. But just as important, they have assessed the market potential for a kit and have determined there are buyers who would be interested in purchasing it."

The optimism shown by the brothers contrasts sharply with the depression that came over their operations last November. At that time the second prototype in the Seawind series was being test flown on Drag Lake.

The testing program had begun November 17. The plane lifted off the water of Drag Lake that day and flew for about a mile at 100 feet. However, several days later, after a number of modifications had been made, the aircraft lifted off the water again, climbed to the right, went into a stall and crashed back to the surface of the chilly lake.

Fortunately the pilot was uninjured but the aircraft was badly damaged.

The post mortem of those tests revealed the plane needed a larger rudder surface and so, scaling their way out of their depression, the two brothers started to build a third prototype, the one that is currently under construction at their workshop just off the Skyline Park Drive in Haliburton. They hope to have this unit ready for testing by late October and feel they have overcome the design difficulties which played havoc with their second aircraft.

Started in the early '70's

The history of the Seawind project goes back to the early 1970's when Len and Rodger were interested in purchasing an amphibian aircraft. They checked the various models available and found them to be too expensive. Only one company at that time offered a kit for home construction, but this model did not appeal to the brothers. As well, plans for a number of home-built amphibian aircraft were available but these were also considered to be unacceptable.

The answer appeared to lie in designing their own aircraft, and so that is what Len and Rodger started to do. Working on paper first, they laid out a sleek aerodynamic aircraft made of fiberglass.

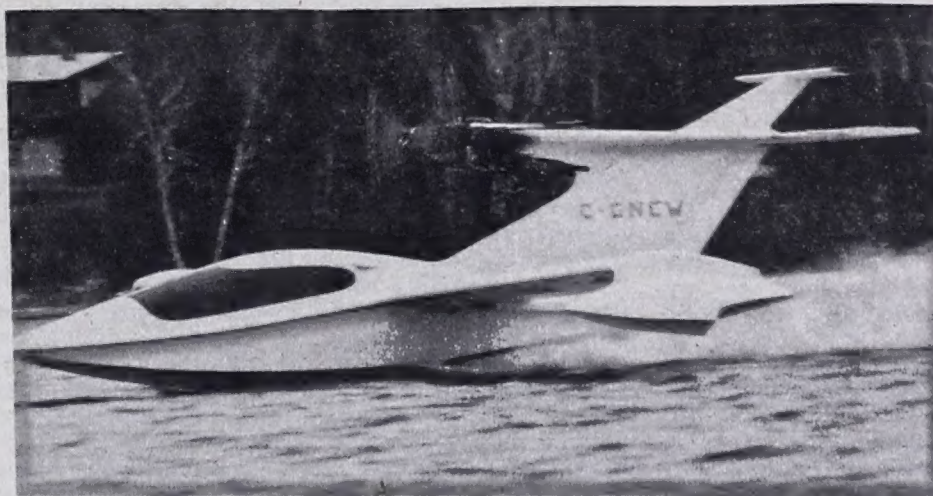

Having had experience with the material, they knew that fiberglass could be molded to any form which suited their purposes exactly. Traditional aircraft frame material, wood aluminum skins, other meta compounds and canvas all posed problems with shaping. Working with a mold and fiberglass layers, the brothers knew they could ignore the need for joints and corners which restricted the styling of conventional airplanes.

They took their proposal to the federal Department of Transport for approval, and it was only then that they learned that composite (fiberglass construction) aircraft were not allowed in Canada.

During the next 18 months they reworked their plans to include these traditional materials and still stay close to the original design. They built the model and tested it on an area lake. The craft wouldn't clear the water and the craft was placed into mothballs and the brothers took what they describe as a "three year sabbatical" from their efforts.

In 1978 the authorities

The second prototype of the Seawind lifts off from the surface of Drag Lake during testing last November. The latest edition of the aircraft carries the same sleek features and design with a number of modifications. Rodger and Len Creelman hope tests this fall will enable them to begin marketing the Seawind in kit form early next year.

also responsible in part of the instability of the second prototype which crashed on Drag Lake last November. The slipstream created by the propeller passed directly over the vertical stabilizer and the

According to an independent aeronautical engineering firm which the brothers hired to assess the problem, all that was needed was to increase the size of the rudder to compensate for the force of the slipstream.

Additional modifications have also been made to the craft along the way. For example, originally the aircraft had been designed with a complicated gas tank system in the wings. Since the wings are a single fiberglass unit, supported internally by bulkheads, it was decided to do away with tanks and simply allow the space in the wings to hold the fuel.

When the prototype has finally proven its airworthiness, and according to Len nearly 50 hours of flight will be necessary for testing, and it has received the approval of the federal authorities, the brothers will begin full scale production.

Kit form

A customer will receive the components of the craft with all the exterior areas fully finished. Missing from the kit will be the engine, propeller, instruments, battery, seat belts interior appointments and trim paint. These the buyer is expected to provide for himself. The kit will initially retail for $12,000 and a purchaser can be expected to spend an additional $6,000 on the other items. Len notes that, like everything else, the price of the kit is being hurt by inflation. He expects the price to rise to the $14,000 mark after the first 200 kits have been sold. (These amounts are in United States funds).

Len has identified the United States as the main market for the kit, even though it is being produced here in Canada. He pointed out, "The Americans are more aviation oriented, the market is larger, and there are fewer restrictions on this type of aircraft." He notes that the kit is not an "instant" airplane. Up to 1,000 hours of work will be required by the purchaser before the craft is ready for flight. Some of the components must be bonded into place, controls and rods must be attached, hinges, brackets, bearings, instrument controls, upholstery and other items must be installed. "We are offering the home builder a sleek frame that he would be unable to duplicate, but he must be willing to install and build the remaining portion of the craft. To qualify under existing regulations for home built airplanes, at least 50% of the work must be done by the builder. Of course, a complete instruction manual comes with the kit.

Approval of the government grant last week has added a boost to the efforts of Len and Rodger. If the third prototype proves successful, the brothers plan to go into full production. They are already accepting tentative orders from interested parties. Once the aircraft has been proven, they will be contacting these individuals to ascertain if they are still interested. Len said the production of the kits could employ up to 25 individuals. A plant to make the kits will be located in Haliburton.

In the meantime, they are rushing to finish the latest

You CAN help

Want to contribute to the potential start of a new industry in the Highlands? But what, you ask, can I do to assist in the production of a prototype aircraft?

There is something everyone can do.

The production of the parts for the Seawind requires the endless application of layers of fiberglass. Fiberglass is a material which is bonded together to form the frame. In some places long swaths of the material are applied while in others small swatches are needed. In either case, the material is bonded through the use of epoxy resins.

These resins are prepared, in small amounts, in tin cans and then painted onto the surface where the fiberglass is being applied. Unfortunately, these cans can only be used once or twice before they must be discarded. Consequently, the construction of the various parts of the aircraft, requires the use of many tin cans.

Len and Rodger and their staff need all the cans they can lay their hands on. Clean 10, 14 and 19 ounce tin cans will be gladly accepted by the builders at their workshop on the Skyline Park road.

You CAN help.

reversed their position and agreed to accept composite construction in experimental aircraft. By 1979 the brothers were convinced they could build an all fiberglass frame aircraft based on the initial design and modifications incorporated over the intervening years.

Engine on tail

One of the interesting features of the aircraft is that the engine is mounted behind the cockpit and passenger area on the tail section. This design is different from traditional amphibian aircraft where the engine is either in the nose, in front of the pilot, or on the wings.

The traditional design means the aircraft must sit high in the water so the propeller has a clear area to spin. As a result, large bulky pontoons and a lattice-work of struts and supports is needed to keep the main body of the craft high enough above the surface of the water. The pontoons add extra weight to the craft and, along with the supports, create drag when the craft is airborne.

Placing the engine high on the tail eliminates the need for pontoons and the negative factors they bring to the aircraft's flight efficiency. The weight of the engine at the rear is compensated by the passenger weight up front. Both pilot and passengers have a clear unobstructed view.

While the mounting of the engine on the tail section has numerous advantages in the design of the aircraft, it was rudder. The force of the slipstream was too strong when the craft was travelling at slower speeds. As a result the rudder could not control the direction of the craft as it was supposed to.

Rodger Creelman applies yet another layer of fiberglass tape to the wing section of the Seawind prototype. Production of the craft has been continuing since last November at a workshop in Haliburton Village. Rodger and his brother Len hope to be able to test fly the latest model of the aircraft this October.

Canadian regulations limit weight and seating

Canadian regulations now limited the seating capacity of home-built aircraft to two with a maximum gross weight of 1985 pounds. "We are designing the aircraft with four places and a gross weight of 2350 to meet the American demand," he indicated. A model to meet Canadian standards will also be available.

The brothers point out that edition of the Seawind. Last year's testing turned out to be a race against the advancing winter ice and while they expect to be ready for testing by sometime in October, an early winter could mean the test program would have to wait until the spring. "I don't think we could wait all winter to find out if our calculations were correct," Len commented.

FROM THE CHAMBER

By Bob Stinson

for our "Fall Colour Festivals".

The time is ripe for a major event to be planned and run on a broad scale across the county and the government is prepared to help the organization that is established for such a purpose. The public has already indicated it is willing to participate in worthwhile festivals or events, and in fact, is searching for them. It certainly would provide a nice boost just before we head into the long days of winter, wouldn't it?

Acid rain project

It's a little encouraging to find out occasionally that something else is happening in regard to acid rain besides another study being launched. It sometimes seems that by the time we have it studied in detail there will be nothing left to study.

Last week the Ministry of Environment hosted about 20 Congressional aides on a fact finding trip to our province and a number of us from Haliburton were invited to join them at a dinner in Bracebridge on Thursday evening. It was an informal gathering and the seating plan was set in such a way to enable all of us to talk one on one with our visitors from Washington along with some of the most informed people in our own government. The people that were here were the ones who have the best chance of convincing President Reagan that some action must be taken. From all that has appeared in the newspapers this would appear to be an unreachable goal, but those in attendance were more optimistic. It was considered a very worthwhile exercise, and we certainly would hope that some benefits will be derived from it.

Much of the credit for the interest of these delegates from the U.S. can be given to the Canadian Coalition on Acid Rain. This organization was formed following the conference we attended in Toronto in 1979 concerning the acid rain problem. They have obtained wide scale support from environmental groups and probably their most important work at this time involves the employing of a full-time lobbyist in Washington.

It was through the pressures applied by this person that the visitation was agreed to. She continues to work to increase the awareness in the U.S. of the problem and this is a major task. Only between 10% and 15% of our American neighbours have ever heard of acid rain compared to over 80% of Canadians.

Possibly our best approach to fighting this international problem from a local base is to support this organization whose sole reason for existence is just that. We hope that in the near future the Chamber can arrange to have their representative visit us here and speak to the membership.

The newsletter's coming

Details of our promotional package for 1981-1982 are now being completed and you will be receiving all the information within a week. We have set up some tight deadlines this year to ensure that all materials are printed in time to provide maximum benefits, so please give it your immediate attention. Those participating in the winter accommodation guide will be contacted first since we only have about 2 weeks to prepare it for the printer.

Change in annual meeting plans

The Peterborough - Haliburton area zone study in relation to tourism development, has been underway since last fall and was expected to be released this spring. The ministry said they would rather have it well done than bow to deadlines, and the document has now been re-scheduled for release this fall.

It therefore seemed appropriate to have it unveiled at the annual meeting of the Central Ontario Travel Association since the study involved most of their travel area. To accommodate this the C.O.T.A. annual meeting will be an all day event featuring a detailed explanation and analysis of the zone study and it will be held on Tuesday, October 13th.

Our Chamber had our annual meeting scheduled for October 14th and were also considering running some seminars during small business week two weeks later. Too avoid conflict with the C.O.T.A. meeting we will now combine the seminars and our meeting and present a full day event on Wednesday, October 28th. Interesting and informative workshops are being organized throughout the day and will be topped off with the banquet and presentations in the evening. We would hope that by re-scheduling the meetings in this way many of you will be able to attend both of these worthwhile events. Watch for more details shortly.

Directors wanted

Now that the annual meeting date is set it means, of course, that the annual search is on for new directors. We would be pleased to talk with any member of the business community who may be interested in running for the board this year.

To run you do not necessarily have to agree with how we have been doing things, or even how we are planning on doing things, since all points of view in any discussion is a worthwhile objective. We just ask that any candidate share our optimism for the future possibilities of the county and the enthusiasm to help make it happen.

If you're interested either talk to one of our present directors, or call the manager at 286-1760.

What's new

Those of you who have been in contact with our office recently are probably aware that our office manager, Elaine Blakey has been absent and in hospital since the end of July. Patti Prentice has been very capably filling in for her in her absence. We are pleased to say that Elaine is now home from hospital and well on the way to recovery.

Our "Welcome Centre" sign at the office is certainly readable from both directions thanks to the kind assistance of Don Smedmor at the E.J. Motel. Don and his hired hands restored the base of the sign and cleared some of the obstructions around it - and cut all our grass again. Helpful members like Don certainly are welcome when the restrictions of a tight budget are evident.

Let's run around together.

PARTICIPATION

SENIORS... ONTARIO PROPERTY TAX GRANT APPLICATIONS.

Last year Ontario replaced its system of Tax Credits for seniors with a new program of Property and Sales Tax Grants to help offset municipal, school and retail sales taxes. The Property Tax Grant of up to $500 per household is provided in two installments annually. The Sales Tax Grant is an automatic $50 paid each year to all Ontario residents 65 and over.

PROPERTY TAX GRANTS

APPLICATIONS

The 1980 Property Tax Grant was paid to recipients in one payment. In 1981, the Grant is being paid in two installments. The first payment, sent automatically in the spring, was equal to one-half the amount of your 1980 Grant.

To qualify for the final installment you must submit an application to the Ministry of Revenue.

If you receive the federal Old Age Security pension, and are eligible, you will receive this application for your Property Tax Grant during the first half of September, 1981. Those who reach the age of 65 between now and December will receive their applications early in 1982.

Seniors who are not eligible for federal Old Age Security payments, but who have previously established eligibility for the Property Tax Grant will also receive an application.

The Ministry of Revenue is mailing applications only to those seniors who are thought to be eligible. If you do not receive an application by September 21 and feel you qualify, please contact our toll-free Information Centre.

ELIGIBILITY

If you're 65 or over and own or rent your home you're eligible for the Property Tax Grant of up to $500.

If you rent your grant will total 20% of your rent or $500, whichever is less.

If you own your principal residence your grant will equal the amount of your property taxes or $500, whichever is less.

If you are married and reside with your spouse or if you share accommodation with someone over 65, only one grant will be paid per household.

If you share your home with anyone over 65 other than your spouse, the grant will be apportioned according to rent or property tax paid.

Take care to complete your application form accurately!

Take a few extra minutes to fill out your application; and then check it again for accuracy. This makes it much easier for the Ministry to process your form and get your cheque to you.

Cheques will be mailed beginning the latter part of October.

EXCEPTIONS

If you reside in a nursing home, a home for the aged or similar institution, you're not eligible for the Property Tax Grant unless you pay for the full cost of your care and the institution pays municipal and school taxes.

If you reside in a tax-exempt property, you are not eligible.

However, if you move into a tax-exempt property or a nursing home, home for the aged or similar institution during 1981, you are eligible for a Property Tax Grant based on your occupancy costs prior to your move.

If you moved permanently to Ontario during 1981, your Property Tax Grant is based on the time you resided in Ontario.

SALES TAX GRANTS

The $50 Sales Tax Grant cheques will be distributed automatically to all Ontario seniors in October.

Private daycare program to be tried near Minden

Although the idea of daycare is certainly not new, it has taken a long time for someone to take the initiative and move beyond thinking about the idea.

Faith Stephenson, taking stock in her name, is sure there is a need for daycare in Haliburton County and will begin a program in September which she will run from her home.

"Last year I thought about the idea," says Faith, "but I was expecting a child. I did do some babysitting during the year. Now, we have the yard fenced in and I have the facilities and my daughter wants to meet some other children her own age."

Faith has put a lot of effort into organizing herself and organizing her schedule. She is quick to point out that daycare, the way she envisions it, is not just babysitting.

"I'm providing a program that's going to help the child develop," she explains. "To develop the child emotionally, mentally and socially. It's important to develop motor skills, providing toys to develop certain areas of growth and teaching through play."

But, she says, she doesn't intend to structure the program so as to have the child busy all the time. "They have to have time to themselves," she says. "You provide the situation and the tools to help them."

Besides having three children of her own, Faith has had a lot of experience working with children and parents. She and her husband moved to Haliburton County two years ago from Port Stanley and previous to that lived in the London area.

Faith is a graduate of Fanshawe College in the Early Childhood Education course, and from there she taught in St. Thomas and then spent some time in co-op nursery schools.

"I actually assisted in setting them up in two small towns," she says.

Faith has geared her program for children from ages two to five although she says she might take a child who is slightly younger.

Faith Stephenson and her daughter

Daycare centres in Ontario, whether large or small come under the jurisdiction of the Ministry of Community and Social Services and operators must get a licence from the Ministry under the Day Nurseries Act.

There are certain provisions for running a centre and Faith says she has made sure she has gone through the proper channels.

Varied program

Her program includes indoor and outdoor play times, crafts, music and games as well as what Faith calls her "themes".

"I'll do things like talking about seasons, it'll be autumn, so we'll just talk about autumn," she says. "I also do nursery rhymes, song and crafts and all will be on nursery rhyme theme."

The Stephensons have a large yard for play and several apparatus for climbing plus the usual variety of swings and slides. Inside, Faith has toys that take up one corner of the room and a large box filled with craft items.

In an article written by a pediatrician from the McMaster University Medical Centre, Dr. J. Jacobs, the point is made that in a well organized daycare program, it should be noted that a child separated from his or her family may lack stimulation and play situations which would supply the need for contact with other people.

This need may be expressed by some fear or restlessness in the first few days at the centre. But, Faith says, "I don't think I've ever had a child who hasn't liked the program."

She does draw a distinction between a daycare centre and a nursery school atmosphere. "Children in daycare are more of a discipline problem than children in a nursery school," says Faith. "I enjoyed the nursery school more because the parents were more enthusiastic, they joined in and wanted to know the songs so they could sing them at home and they wanted the recipes for play-dough. It was more of an enrichment."

She explained that children with discipline problems at home may not have displayed them at school and parents would ask her how they could help the child overcome these problems at home.

The need for better supervised and better run daycare centres is growing. A child's environment is his or her contact with people and in early childhood, those people are the family. But, if the child is being looked after by someone other than his family during the day in some sort of daycare arrangement, those people make up the environment which produce influences needed by the child for development of his or her personality.

Faith says she feels daycare will have to be taken over by the government.

"Private daycare can't make it pay," she says. "And still have good daycare," she says. "They're trying to cut costs, the more you cut costs, it means the less the child actually gets. The teachers want more money, there are more kids for one teacher and the quality isn't as good. If you want quality, daycare should be subsidized."

The Ontario government allocated $16,710,000 to the Ministry of Community and Social Services for 1980-81. Under this, $10,507,000 goes to the Social Development Policy Field, one of the government's policy fields.

Community and Social Services gets $1,456,000 but only $371,000 is given for children's services.

Faith says she feels sorry for parents who have to send their children to daycare or some other form of child care program.

"They miss an awful lot of watching their child grow up," she says. "That's why I want to stay home with my children rather than going out and work. This way I can watch my kids while I work."

She says her husband will be on hand at various times which she says will be an added advantage.

"It'll be like a father influence," Faith explains. "The children will be part of a family, but not their own. It'll be a substitute family."

Faith says she hopes her program will be both beneficial and fun for the children and because it is on a smaller scale, she'll be able to devote more time to the children's needs. "That's why I left daycare when I had 30 children myself," she explains. "I could run the program but a few children needed individual attention and there wasn't time to give them the proper attention. At this age, it's really the most important time of their lives."

A Royal thank you

The Royal Mail brought Royal Mail from a royal male for the Mayor of Metropolitan Carnarvon this week.

Self-proclaimed Mayor of Metropolitan Carnarvon, Ali Hogg, has received a reply from Buckingham Palace in response to a special gift package sent to Prince Charles and Lady Diana.

The letter, on Buckingham Palace stationery with the Prince's three feather insignia, arrived Monday. While it wasn't a personal note from the prince and his new bride, the note did express the appreciation of the newlyweds for the gifts the Mayor had sent.

The letter was written for Prince Charles and Lady Diana Spencer by Rear Admiral Sir Hugh Janion K.C.V.O.

On behalf of the newlyweds, Sir Hugh's letter expressed sincere appreciation for the gifts. He also apologised for being unable to return a photograph of the couple as the Mayor requested. He pointed out that due to the large number of requests for pictures, he was unable to comply with the request.

Earlier in the year, Mayor Ali Hogg had sent, what she described as souvenir package 33A from Metro Carnarvon, including two tee shirts with the official seal, two buttons, two bumper stickers and one autographed copy of the Jeff Barry Band album entitled, "North to Carnarvon".

Mayor Hogg said she was delighted to receive the letter from Buckingham Palace. However, she expressed some reservations about the fact the note was addressed to Mr. Ali Hogg.

Minden evens final series

The Minden Dixie Lee-Homestead Seniors put on a strong showing Monday evening to even the final series in the women's softball league. The Minden squad defeated Haliburton 8-2 to leave the best of five play-off standing at a single game each.

The Monday night encounter at the Minden diamond contrasted with the 16-2 drubbing the local team faced at the hands of Haliburton Wednesday evening in Haliburton.

In the Wednesday contest, the Haliburton squad was able to score in five of the six innings, taking a two run lead in the first, adding four in the second and a single in the third. The fourth inning Minden held the hosts scoreless but Haliburton came back in the fifth with six runs and another three in the final frame to seal the game.

Minden was scoreless throughout the first five innings as the batters were retired 1-2-3. A two run effort in the sixth inning saved the Minden team from a shut-out.

Nelda Cully was the losing pitcher while Nancy Maughan was the winner for Haliburton.

The same story seemed to be shaping up for Monday night as Haliburton grabbed an early lead. The visitors scored a single run in the first inning on a home run off the bat of Marla MacNaull.

Another homer in the second frame by Kim Roberts gave the Haliburton team a two run edge.

Minden tightened up its defenses following the second inning and following two scoreless innings, began recording its own runs. The home team scored a single in the third, four in the fourth inning and three in the fifth to pull ahead of Haliburton.

Home runs came off the bats of Joan Paul and Helen Burk.

Hockey team hopes fade

Hopes that an Intermediate "B" hockey team might be iced in Minden faded this week as potential sponsor Dave Willis of the Rockcliffe Hotel announced that he had been unable to find a suitable coach for the team.

Willis said that it would be difficult to organize a team at this late date and have it ready for the 1981-82 hockey season.

In mid-August a number of meetings were held, organized by the Minden Minor Hockey Association, to sound out the possibility of having an intermediate team here. The organization emphasized that while they were interested in seeing an intermediate team in Minden, they were unwilling to undertake the responsibility of organizing and running the squad. The Minor Hockey executive agreed to act as a liaison between the intermediate league officials and the new team until it was established and then withdraw from the operation.

Dave Willis indicated he would be willing to provide a certain amount of funding for the team. However, he told a meeting August 13 that the team would have to be operated on a business-like manner. He said he was only interested in sponsoring the team if a coach could be found who would command the respect of the players and, in

Hustlers season over - Lindsay takes series 3 - 1

The season is over for the Minden Rockcliffe Hustlers.

The team's hopes of capturing the Tri-County league championship ended Sunday evening when they were defeated by Lindsay, capping a 3-1 game victory in the best of five series.

The Hustlers opened the series in Lindsay on Tuesday night (August 25) on a winning note with a 5-2 win.

This was probably the best game of the series as at the end of ten innings the score was 1-1. In the first of the tenth Bernie Nicholls lead off with a home run and after Wade Stamp and Gene Newell singled Dave Dollo clouted a three run homer to make the score 5-1.

Jeff Graham hit a home run for York Tavern to make the final score 5-2 Minden. Winning pitcher was Snell while Ellicott took the loss.

On Wednesday night (August 28) the bubble broke and the local Hustlers were drubbed 7-0 at home. This game was a lot closer than the score indicated as Lindsay York Tavern had only two earned runs with the rest coming on a mess of errors by the locals. Winning pitcher was Ellicott while Wade Stamp took the loss.

On Friday night, again at Minden, in a real crowd pleaser, each team picked up a run in the third inning. The score remained this way until the sixth when the Hustlers picked up what looked to be the winning run when Brian Mullholland singled, was moved to second on a sacrifice bunt by Larry Kent and scored on a pinch hit single by Greg Newell.

In the seventh the locals ran into that old hot ball problem and Dan Ellicott scored on three straight errors to tie the game and send it into extra innings.

In the eighth York Tavern picked up three runs and a homer by Jeff Graham to win the game 5-2. Winning pitcher was Ellicott while Snell took the loss.

In the final game on Sunday night the Hustlers picked up a run in the first inning on a home run by Nicholls and another in the fourth when Snell and Stamp singled. Gene Newell sacrificed Snell home and the score was 2-0 for the locals after four innings.

In the fifth inning the Hustlers ran into that same old problem. They committed a couple of errors and York Tavern took advantage of them and scored four runs to lead 4-2. This is the way the score ended even though the Hustlers gave it their best shot right to the end. Jeff Graham was the winner with Jack Snell taking the loss.

This ends the regular season for the Rockcliffe Hustlers. In many ways it was a successful season for the locals as they had many new faces and brought on some younger players who are bound to help them in the future.

The management and players would like to thank all their faithful followers and anyone who helped in any way this year.

Also, last weekend at our tournament, we regret that we forgot to thank Max (Deac) Jackson for his services. We apologize for the error.

Hockey

formed, it would have played in a six community circuit which included Bobcaygeon, Beaverton, Cannington, Little Britain and Ops.

Since at the time of the August 13 meeting, the registration date for intermediate teams was already passed, there appears to be little chance that a team representing Minden in that league will play this year. However, at least one Minor Hockey official expressed the hope that the interest shown this year might grow during the coming season and result in an intermediate league team finding a home in Minden for the next season.

Delegates exchange views on acid rain

Despite what may appear to be a lack of concern by many in the United States about the impact of acid rain, there is a group of citizens in that country which is concerned about the effects the precipitation is having on Canada. Some of those people met with representatives of Muskoka and Haliburton areas last week in Bracebridge.

Haliburton County was represented by Lutterworth Reeve Ron Gambell, Sherborne, McClintock and Livingstone Reeve Fred Baum, Glamorgan Reeve Ken McGuire, Bob Stinson of the Chamber of Commerce and Michael Collins of the Haliburton County Anti-Pollution Committee.

The group met informally with a group of aides representing Senators and members of the House of Representatives as well as advisers to the present administration and the Democratic party.

The meeting took the form of a casual discussion, with representatives from both countries exchanging views on various matters concerning trans-boundary pollution. The visitors also toured part of the Muskoka area to view some of the lakes which are being hurt by the acid rain.

Lutterworth Reeve Ron Gambell, who heads up the county council's acid rain committee, said the talks proved to be very enlightening. He said both sides in the discussion learned a great deal about the other's position. He noted that the visitors appeared to express sincere concern for the problems being experienced here.

Further meetings with the U.S. representatives are planned for later this month with a group of Senators and Congressmen as well as members of the Washington press corps visiting Bracebridge to meet with the local delegations. A number of individuals have also been invited to attend a series of meetings planned for the Lake Placid area to discuss the same problem.

The meeting was closed to the public.

Termination clarification

In a report contained in the August 19 edition of The Times it was stated that the municipality of Anson, Hindon and Minden had "fired" its auditing firm of MacGillivray and Company.

Reeve Lloyd Walker pointed out that the word "fired" contains certain implications which he felt did not apply in this case. He noted that the company's contract is simply not being renewed and the action was not being taken because they had not carried out their duties properly for the municipality.

He noted that the resolution passed by the council directed that a letter of appreciation be sent to the company for their services to the community. He said he didn't want the reputation of the company to be called into question because of the use of a word.

It's not work to walk.
So why not walk to work?

Charges laid following brief chase

A variety of charges were laid against a Minden area man following a brief police chase and accident Sunday morning.

According to police, Leslie C. Alton, 51, of Minden Township was stopped at the Austin ESSO service station on Highway 35 when an OPP constable approached the man and advised him to remain in his car and that the vehicle should not leave the lot. Alton left the gas station travelling south and was pursued by the officer. A second police cruiser joined the chase as the vehicles passed in front of the Minden OPP detachment headquarters.

Alton attempted to make a right turn into Minden at the Bobcaygeon Road entrance, but failed to negotiate the turn. His vehicle crossed two traffic islands and sheared off a yield sign at the base. The vehicle came to rest in the ditch on the far side of the intersection. Damage was estimated at $1,000.

The driver sustained a cut to the top of his head and was taken to Minden Red Cross Hospital for treatment.

Alton has been charged with impaired driving, driving with more than .08 milligrams of alcohol in 100 millilitres of blood, driving while his licence was under suspension and consuming alcohol while on the interdicted list.

The incident was investigated by Constable Boyd Jarvis.

Disappearance

Police and friends of a Toronto man are puzzled as to why he disappeared from a friend's cottage only to show up later at his home in Toronto.

On Monday night (August 24) Mike Novak reported his friend, twenty-three year old Larry Sorrichetti missing from their rented cottage on Oxtongue Lake.

Novak reported Sorrichetti had left around two that afternoon but had not returned.

Constable Jim Solway organized a pre-dawn search which included four Minden OPP officers, the canine team from Peterborough, one Force helicopter and later the second helicopter which had been refueling in Bracebridge.

Constable Solway also requested OPP in Downsview to check Sorrichetti's home in Toronto.

Tuesday morning, the Downsview detachment reported Sorrichetti had been located at his home. He had apparently hitch-hiked to Huntsville where he took a bus to Toronto.

He didn't offer any explanation as to why he left the County without telling anyone.

been charged with the theft of a $100 sign taken from Maggies Restaurant on Highway 35.

Sunday morning, the 4 x 5 foot "Open" sign was recovered from a van which was parked in the Brown Owl Restaurant just north of Maggies on Highway 35.

James M. McNeillage, 27 and Joseph P. Toule, 24 were arrested and charged by investigating officer Constable Bill Clendenning.

Four charged

Four youths have been charged with causing a disturbance after police received complaints about rowdy behaviour near the area of Haliburton's Sky Slider.

There were reports that baseball games have been disrupted and fights have broken out with local youths.

Nineteen-year old Floyd Brett Hie and 18 year-old Drayton Bonyun have been charged with breach of probation and causing a disturbance while 16-year old Sheldon McMurray and 17-year old Shaughan Wilson have both been charged with causing a disturbance.

Investigating the matter is Constable Weldon Popp.

Man charged

A Minden man has been charged with careless driving after his car missed a curve and hit some guide posts on South Water Street in Minden Saturday morning.

Damage to 27-year old Roy Goforth's 1977 Ford was $800.

The accident was investigated by Constable Mike Smith.

Into ditch

Fifteen hundred dollars damage was done to a car after the driver swerved to avoid hitting a dog on the Bethel Church Road.

Vern Witter, 19, of Minden was driving a 1966 Ford when he turned the car sharply and it went into the ditch hitting a rock.

Constable Mike Smith investigated.

Careless driving

A Windsor man has been charged with careless driving after an accident which caused $2500 damage to his car.

Seventeen-year old Nicholas Rumpfolt was driving on the South Kashiawigamog Lake Road, near the Haliburton Golf Course when he swerved to miss a dead animal on the road.

He lost control of his 1979

Ford pick-up and it went into the ditch and rolled over.

The investigating officer was Constable John Gray.

Roll over

A Mississauga woman lost control of her car on a curve and it rolled down an embankment landing upside down after knocking down some guard rails.

Friday evening Marion Rolston, 49, was driving on Highway 35 at Mountain Lake when the accident occurred.

Her 1968 Pontiac was demolished but the driver was not injured. Rolston has been charged with careless driving.

The incident was investigated by Constable Bob Wood.

Charge laid

Five thousand dollars damage was done to a Toronto woman's car after the driver lost control on a curve.

Last Thursday night Lisa Dunn, 19, was driving on Kushog Lake Road when she lost control of her 1981 Chev and the car rolled over in the ditch.

Dunn has been charged with careless driving.

The investigating officer was Constable John Gray.

THE MANAGEMENT OF ENERGY IN CANADA. ONE OF A SERIES.

FOUR SECRETS OF A SUPER NEW FAMILY HOME THAT CUTS HEATING BILLS UP TO 90%

YOU CAN HEAT SUPER ENERGY-EFFICIENT HOMES FOR $50 TO $200 A YEAR—TODAY!

It costs $500 to $1,000 to heat a typical Canadian house. But there are super energy-efficient homes coming on the market that heat for $50 to $200 a year.

They look like other new houses. They have various layouts—bungalows, ranch-style, splits, townhouses. Nothing far out—and no far out prices, either.

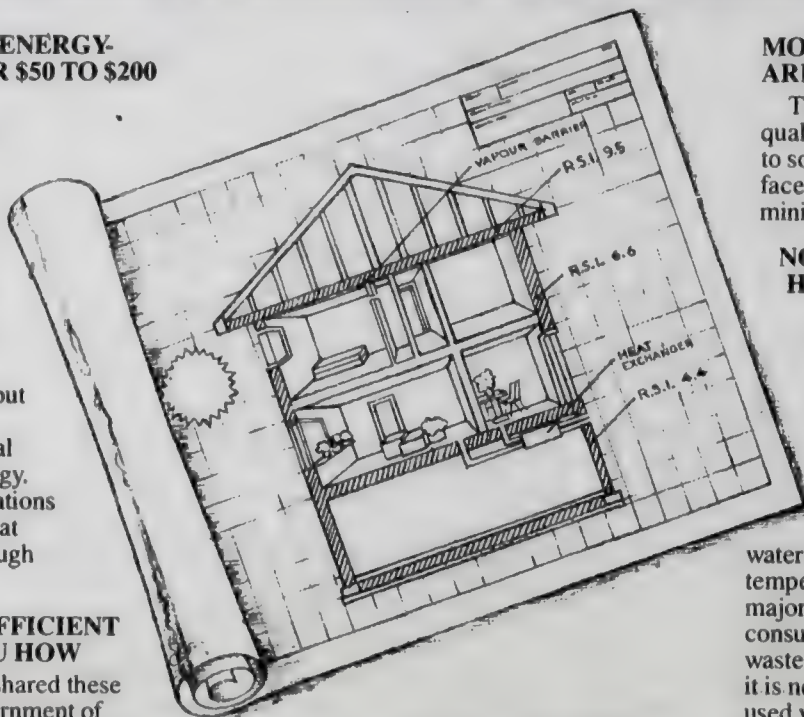

They don't even use special materials, or exotic technology. What they do have are innovations in design and construction that have proven themselves through frigid Prairie winters.

NEW SUPER ENERGY-EFFICIENT HOMES—TO SHOW YOU HOW

It's time other Canadians shared these secrets. That's why the Government of Canada is supporting the construction of new super energy-efficient homes as part of the National Energy Program. Builders will construct some in every province. Even those Canadians who aren't in the market for a new home can use some of these innovations in their present homes. But the super homes are for sale, too. They're meant for living, not just show.

THE OPEN SECRETS OF A SUPER ENERGY-EFFICIENT HOME

The four major items that make a home super energy-efficient may add up to $6,000 or 5 to 10% to the construction cost of a new home. But that's an investment which pays for itself in lower fuel bills, keeps on paying dividends for years to come and adds to the resale value of the home.

THICK WALLS—UP TO A FOOT (30 cm) THICK—AND FULL OF INSULATION

Insulation. And more insulation. That's one of the big secrets. The super energy-efficient house has two to three times more insulation than the average new home.

WHAT YOU'LL GET

	Super Energy-Efficient Home	Most Other New Homes
	RSI (R)	RSI (R)
Ceilings	8.8-10.5 (50-60)	3.5-5.3 (20-30)
Walls	5.3-7.0 (30-40)	2.1-3.5 (12-20)
Basement Walls	3.5-5.3 (20-30)	0.18-2.1 (1-12)

(A higher 'RSI' factor means lower heat loss.)

The walls of a super energy-efficient home are sometimes 30 cm thick to take the abundant insulation. The attic is piled high with the stuff, and there's even insulation in the doors, making them RSI/1.7 or better, instead of the normal RSI/.35. You can't see super-insulation, but it's there, silently saving you money.

IT'S AIRTIGHT BUT HEALTHY—WITH FRESH AIR

The entire house is wrapped (on the inside) with an airtight vapour barrier to reduce excessive rates of air change, to keep out drafts, and to keep household moisture from entering the walls. The vapour barrier is carefully overlapped and caulked at all joints—even behind electrical boxes. Every joint and crack is completely sealed. Doors and windows are weather-stripped and super-tight. Air-lock vestibules reduce drafts when doors are open.

In fact, the house is so airtight that mechanical ventilation may have to be provided. But even here, a unique air-to-air heat exchanger developed just for this purpose, or a small heat pump, saves energy by transferring heat from the outgoing air to the incoming fresh air. Ventilation is efficient and controlled—not wasteful and haphazard.

MOST WINDOWS FACE SOUTH AND ARE ENERGY-CONSERVING

The house is oriented to the sun with quality double-glazed windows facing south to soak up free solar energy. Fewer windows face north and these may be triple-glazed to minimize heat loss.

NOW, WHO NEEDS A BIG HEATING SYSTEM?

To complete the energy-conserving features of these houses, they are equipped with automatic set-back thermostats and the most efficient of appliances and heating equipment.

The heating system is miniature both in size and consumption, matching the space heating demands of the house. The water heater and hot water pipes are well insulated, and water temperatures are readily controlled. The major appliances all have low EnerGuide consumption ratings, and in some cases waste heat is captured and recirculated where it is needed. Efficient fluorescent lights are used wherever possible rather than incandescent bulbs.

BUY A SUPER ENERGY-EFFICIENT HOME—OR JUST LEARN FROM ONE

If you're in the market for a new home, here's what to do:

Some super energy-efficient homes may be built in your community within the next year or so. Buy one, if you can.

They'll be bargains.

When looking at any new house ask for the features that make a home super energy-efficient.

Even if you're not in the market for a new house you can still save energy and money in your present home. Here's where the EnerSave Advisory Service—a free Government of Canada energy consulting service for all Canadians—can help. Mail the coupon below. We'll send you our EnerSave "Energy Analysis" questionnaire. It will help you plan and complete your home energy program.

To be held hostage is a terrifying experience.

Especially hostage to a disease with no known cure... and no immediate hope of escape. Today, more than 20,000 Canadians are held captive by muscular dystrophy and more than 40 other nerve and muscle disorders. Research alone is the promise of their release. And keeping that promise depends on your support!

Seems like rain and more rain, perhaps that will mean dry weather for Kinmount Fair, next weekend.

Sincere sympathy goes to the families and friends of the late David Hiltz, Mike McInerney, Mrs. Lawrence McKnight, Mrs. Leeman Nixon and Donald Shaw, whose funerals were since last week.

Nice to hear Mary Currah is home again and doing nicely after an operation at Ross Memorial in Lindsay.

Mrs. Florence Barton of Agincourt visited with Mrs. Verna Jarvis and they enjoyed dinner at Glen Roy with friends on Friday night.

Guests this past while with Pearl and Jerry Durant were daughter Joan and hubby Alex Chornous, Lisa and Scott of Toronto; Pearl's brother Ted Hart and wife Daisy of Toronto, her brother Joe Hart and her sister Shirley Hart and Mrs. Amy Larock all of Ottawa.

Don't forget these people at Hyland Crest having birthdays, Isabella Eastman, Sept. 9, Mary Oliver, Sept. 6 and Frank Billings Sept. 12. They might like a visit with you, a card or a phone call.

Wedding bells were ringing on the weekend with congratulations going to Mr. and Mrs. Craig Cowen (nee Nancy Lynn Wise).

There was a crowd of youngsters and parents at the Firehall last Thursday for the Deckhands Puppet Show, which was excellent and the group sang several songs as well. These people have given about 100 shows with two different sets of stories, so they have been really busy this summer and they come from Lake Ontario Regional Library Services.

Lisa, Bruce, Adam and Jody Rockory of Hampton N.B. have been at Fairfield cottages, for a holiday and visited many times with his parents Mr. and Mrs. John Rockory.

Cairine Figueiredo, Elizabeth and Melissa of Binghamton N.Y. are visiting with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mac McCarey.

Rheta and Clare Brown enjoyed a holiday at St. Catharines and visits with Thelma and Sid Ewing and Marcella and Bob Wright all former friends of theirs and residents of Lutterworth Pines.

FRIENDSHIP

There is something in friendship, very sweet for rainy days—
'Tis thoughtfulness in finding what we like in little ways,
And of doing one by one—things that others leave undone—
There's something in friendship sane and strong, glad and true,
Which makes better worth the doing, everything I have to do,
And a friendly word and smile somehow helps to make life worthwhile...
There is something in friendship, very rare to find, my friend.

'Tis unselfishness in giving without stint and without end...

So there is at last we learn—love that asks for no return—
There is something in friendship that stands through many a test,
Giving us a sense of safety, of security and of rest—
Friendship we have had our work-days through—
Remember-when-days, makes for happiness with you...

Anon

Andrew Des Lauriers of Peterborough has been visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Bob Wood and boys.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph LaBelle of Weston visited one afternoon last week with Irene and Bill Moore.

The Frank Wrights are home again after an enjoyable motor trip in Western Canada.

Colin Hewitt of Toronto visited a few days with his mother Mrs. Ern Hewitt.

Next weekend will be a busy one, with the Auction and Bake Sale for the new Curling Club; the Minor Hockey Tag Day will be Saturday as well. Friday afternoon you may get good used articles at the "Upstairs Shop" at St. Paul's Parish Hall from 1:30 - 4:00.

Vera Bagshaw of Minden spent a few days in Rexdale last week with her sister Gladys, Mrs. Ron Lawson.

Don't forget there will be a busy time from September 8 - 11 when Minden Library moves into new quarters at the Library Cultural Centre. Then you may drop in on Saturday, September 12 for the re-opening, the usual hours from 3 - 5 and get your reading.

Next weekend there will also be a holiday, on the Monday, the first since May for most people, and then on Tuesday will be school for young people. It has certainly been a long holiday this year, but Christmas holiday will be shorter or shouldn't we mention that. The crowds are thinning out, but highways are busy on weekends, so drive carefully. Cheerio until next time.

Lines from Lutterworth by Jean Lacey

Hi! Here's a little smile for you - The man's wife came into the room with her head bristling with pink plastic curlers. He said, "What happened to your head?" She said, "I set it." He said, "What time does it go off?"

The weather doesn't know what to do with itself lately. But hang in there, we'll get some more nice weather yet.

Mr. and Mrs. David Garst from Lindsay and their three children had dinner and spent the afternoon with Pastor and Mrs. Wicks at the Ken and Jeanne Bowrons home. The Garsts were singing at the Minden Gospel Church on Sunday.

Mrs. Lil Porter has gone to Cranford, Penn., to look after her sister-in-law, Mrs. Gertie Lynch, who is quite ill.

There was a very good turnout at the Lutterworth Library on Saturday night. There was a showing of the film Haji Omar. It was about the nomads of Afghanistan. The movie was quite interesting and an opinion was expressed to have a film night once a month.

Anne, Frank and Lisa Dunsford with Gary, Sandy and their children spent the weekend camping.

Lee and his mother Mary Oster have been up to their cottage for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Miles spent their 35th Wedding Anniversary at their cottage. All the family came up to help them celebrate. We add our congratulations to them.

Hint of the Week

Corn - To keep sweet corn yellow add 1 teaspoon lemon juice to the cooking water, a minute before you remove it from the stove. Salted cooking water only toughens corn.

Well kids, summer holidays are almost at an end, I hope your holidays were fun while they lasted.

Too Small

by Aileen Fisher
Beetles' faces are so small
You can't tell if they smile at all,
Or if they like to laugh and giggle,
Or even have a tongue to wiggle.
Beetle's faces look so stiff
You can't see how their noses SNIFF,
And if they talk you never hear them,
Even if you scrunch down near them.

Bye for now. Take it easy. God bless till next time.

This week's activities started with our regular fun and fitness program and crafts on Monday.

In the evening several residents watched two very interesting movies. "Salt, the essence of Life" showed us how rocksalt used to be mined by pick and shovel and how it is mined today by explosives and heavy gasoline operated machinery.

"Foothold on Antarctica" took us on an expedition from London to the Weddell Sea at the South Pole. The party crossed Antarctica from the Weddell Sea to the Ross Sea which is a distance of 2,000 miles. The trip was treacherous but was completed in 2 years. Everyone thoroughly enjoyed these two films.

Tuesday morning Rev. John James of Haliburton United Church held service in the chapel. Maron Rose played the organ during the service.

In the afternoon a game of Bingo was held in the auditorium. Everyone enjoyed the afternoon playing the game of chance.

Wednesday evening Bob Penfold and his volunteer helpers were here for games night. The residents enjoyed games of euchre, cribbage and crokinole.

Thursday afternoon the ladies of Minden A.C.W. served a delicious assortment of sandwiches and goodies at the tea party. This was a special birthday party. The guests of honour were Ethel Robinson, Dorothy Martin, Isabella Avery, Eliza Chalmers, Viola Deumo, Alberta Webber and Ernest Berry. The special people all celebrated birthdays in the month of August and the group presented them with a lovely personalized birthday cake. Our thanks to these folks for making this birthday celebration a very happy one.

Friday afternoon several people gathered in the main lounge for the sing song. Grace Coburn led the singing and Norma Barron accompanied us on the piano.

We would like to welcome Elsie Plumb and Chris Precoor to Hyland Crest. We sincerely hope they will enjoy their new home with us.

A street by any other name

What's in a name?

That is the question the members of the Anson, Hindon and Minden Township council would like answered. The council is considering the possibility of changing the name of Minden's main street and are seeking the opinion of the public. The matter was brought up at the August 28 meeting.

While the street which forms the central business section of the community is officially known as Bobcaygeon Road, it has also been called Main Street. A road sign at the southern entrance to the community, in front of the Case Realty office, indicates the name as Main Street.

One suggestion which the council is considering is Minden Road.

There was some concern earlier this year that the Highway 35 road signs, indicating Bobcaygeon Road, were misleading to those individuals unfamiliar with the area. Those signs have since been changed with the reference to Bobcaygeon removed and Main Street used instead with a notation that the street led to the business section.

The Bobcaygeon Road designation dates back to the early days of this area's history. A number of development roads were pushed through the bush of then "wild" Ontario. The Bobcaygeon Road got its name from the community at its starting point.

Reeve Lloyd Walker suggested that changing the name would mean an old landmark would be lost. He said there was value in keeping the area's history alive and suggested if one name is changed it could encourage other changes.

However, the council has yet to make a decision on the matter and is eager to hear from residents. If you have an opinion on what Minden's main street should be called, the council members want to hear from you.

By-law revision

Anson, Hindon and Minden Township council has accepted the bid of Proctor and Redfern Ltd., consulting engineers, for a comprehensive review of the municipality's zoning by-law.

The bid of $12,500. was accepted at the Wednesday evening meeting of the council. Two other firms had also bid on the project.

Under the proposal, the consulting engineers will examine the existing by-law, determine where changes and amendments are necessary and suggest how the by-law could be altered to meet the community's needs. The revision will be carried out with the consultation of the council.

As part of the revision, the council has applied to the Ontario ministry of Housing for a community planning study grant to cover the cost of the update.
